What is Open Access?

“By “open access” to [peer-reviewed research literature], we mean its free availability on the public internet, permitting any users to read, download, copy, distribute, print, search, or link to the full texts of these articles, crawl them for indexing, pass them as data to software, or use them for any other lawful purpose, without financial, legal, or technical barriers other than those inseparable from gaining access to the internet itself.”

(Budapest Open Access Initiative, <https://www.budapestopenaccessinitiative.org/boai-10-recommendations>)

Overview: the three most common Open Access colours

How can you publish Open Access free of charge or subsidised?

- Diamond Open Access journals can be found in the DOAJ:
 - <https://doaj.org/>
- UniA „read & publish“ agreements with publishers:
 - e.g. Wiley and Springer DEAL
 - articles in hybrid journals can be published Open Access free of charge
 - articles in fully gold journals can be published Open Access with a 20% discount
 - any remaining publishing costs need to be covered by the author or research group (subsidies may be available)

Open Access Myth? Busted!

If all journals changed to pure gold (not hybrid), current subscription budgets could be used for gold OA. Desirable is a model where the journal is financed as a whole and not the individual article.

„The ‚author pays‘ model is not sustainable long term. It can also lead to conflicts when sharing / dividing budgets and can cause problems for authors without affiliation to an academic institution.“
