

Expert discussions on cross-cutting topics relevant to grant applications (FAQ)

The Research Service and the Staff Development Unit have jointly established a short-format series on cross-cutting topics relevant to grant applications, aimed at professors and postdoctoral researchers. The aim is to explore these topics and further connect the relevant expertise within the university. In short presentations, researchers and experts for cross-cutting topics will share information and experiences on issues of strategic relevance for project proposals.

Ethical Aspects of Research Projects: From Grant Proposal to Responsible Research Practice (in German language)

Inputs by: Prof. Dr. Elisabeth André, Chair for Human-Centered Artificial Intelligence, University of Augsburg &
Prof. Dr. Kerstin Schlögl-Flierl, Chair for Moral Theology, University of Augsburg

Research funding organisations and scientific journals often require an ethics assessment, if studies relate to people or identifiable data or if a research project involves risks and / or burdens for persons or groups of persons. The Ethics Commission of the University of Augsburg reviews the ethical legitimacy of such research projects upon request. Professors André und Schlögl-Flierl (Chair and Deputy Chair of the Ethics Commission) inform about the work of the Ethics Commission. All participants can pose questions to the speakers and participate in our dialogue.
