

Biographical Note

Current Position. In 2011, Ferdinand Wollenschläger (* 1976) was appointed professor at the University of Augsburg (Germany), Faculty of Law, after having been offered professorships at the universities of Augsburg, Mainz, Saarbrücken and Würzburg. In Augsburg, he holds a chair for Public Law, European Law and Public Economic Law. He also acts as Director of the Institute of Public Law and as Co-Director of both the Institute for Bio, Health and Medical Law and of the ACELR (Augsburg Center for Global Economic Law and Regulation). In 2018, Ferdinand Wollenschläger was offered a professorship at the Helmut-Schmidt-Universität Hamburg which he declined; in 2019, he received another offer from the Georg-August-Universität Göttingen.

Studies. He studied law at Munich and Oxford (Brasenose College) Universities and is a fully qualified German lawyer (1st and 2nd State Examination, 2002 and 2004 respectively). During his studies, he received scholarships by the Stiftung Maximilianeum (Munich), the Studienstiftung des deutschen Volkes e.V. (German National Merit Foundation), the State of Bavaria and the DAAD (German Academic Exchange Service).

Doctorate. In 2006, he received a Ph.D. from Munich University with a dissertation entitled “Grundfreiheit ohne Markt. Die Herausbildung der Unionsbürgerschaft im unionsrechtlichen Freizügigkeitsregime“ (A New Fundamental Freedom beyond Market Integration. The Emergence of European Union Citizenship in the regime of the free movement of persons). His Ph.D. thesis was awarded with the Faculty prize of Munich Law Faculty and with the Ph.D. prize of the Munich law society (Münchener Juristische Gesellschaft) and has been republished recently. During his doctoral studies, Ferdinand Wollenschläger spent a period as research scholar with Prof. Joseph H. H. Weiler at the Jean Monnet Center for Regional and International Economic Law and Justice at New York University, School of Law.

Habilitation. In 2010, Ferdinand Wollenschläger completed his “Habilitation” (second Ph.D.) on “Verteilungsverfahren” (Distributing Scarce Goods as a Task of the Administration: Parameters of Constitutional and European Union Law, Administrative Procedures in Specific Areas & the Emergence of a New Type of Administrative Procedure), again at the Faculty of Law of Munich University. Both, Ph.D. and Habilitation, were supervised by Professor Peter M. Huber, Justice of the Federal Constitutional Court.

Research/teaching. Ferdinand Wollenschläger has taught various courses on European Union, constitutional as well as administrative law – areas in which also his main research interests lie. Besides his dissertation (2007/reprint 2017) and Habilitation (2010) he has co-authored monographs on contracts in planning law (Einheimischenmodelle. Städtebauliche Zielverwirklichung an der Schnittstelle von europäischem und nationalem, öffentlichem und privatem Recht, 2008) and on same-sex marriage (Ehe für Alle. Die Öffnung der Ehe für gleichgeschlechtliche Paare aus verfassungsrechtlicher und rechtsvergleichender Perspektive, 2018). He also co-edited books on Public Economic Law (Kompendium Öffentliches Wirtschaftsrecht, 2015; new edition 2019 forthcoming) and the Public Law of Bavaria (Landesrecht Bayern, 2019). Moreover, he published articles namely on EU Fundamental Rights, Union Citizenship, the Internal Market (Free Movement of Persons, Public Procurement) and further issues of EU and national economic law, European and national administrative law, federalism-related issues of German Constitutional Law, constitutional issues of Germany's participation in European integration, health law and on the conflict of fundamental rights regimes in the European multi-level system. Finally, he contributes to commentaries on the German constitution, notably on the general right to equality (v. Mangoldt/Klein/Starck/Huber/Voßkuhle, 2018), Germany's participation in European and international integration (Dreier, 2013–2018) and on the concurrent legislation (Bonner Kommentar, 2018), the Bavarian constitution, the code of administrative court procedure, state aid law and EU primary law including the Charter of Fundamental Rights.

Ferdinand Wollenschläger has lectured at various universities and conferences in Germany as well as abroad. He is also co-editor of the Europäische Zeitschrift für Wirtschaftsrecht (European Review for Economic Law) and of the book series "Beiträge zum Verwaltungsrecht" (Contributions to Administrative Law, Mohr Siebeck) as well as member of the scientific committee of the forum vergabe e.V. (public procurement law). For the XXVI FIDE Congress (Fédération Internationale pour le Droit Européen) held in Copenhagen in May 2014, Ferdinand Wollenschläger has been appointed national rapporteur on Public Procurement law. In 2015, he was invited to give a lecture at the 75th annual conference of the Vereinigung der deutschen Staatsrechtslehrer on "Verfassung im Allgemeinen Verwaltungsrecht: Bedeutungsverlust durch Europäisierung und Emanzipation".

During the academic year 2012/2013, Ferdinand Wollenschläger was visiting professor at the University of Leiden, Faculty of Law. He is also co-speaker of the German-Italian conference of Public Lawyers and member of the European Group of Public Law.

Expert activities. Ferdinand Wollenschläger has been regularly invited as legal expert on constitutional, administrative and EU law issues by the European Parliament, European Commission, the German Bundestag, the German Bundesrat and various Parliaments of the German Länder. Moreover, he has been preparing advisory opinions in these areas for various public bodies at national and EU level and acted as representative in constitutional litigations.

More specifically, the Federal Ministry for Economic Affairs and Energy appointed Ferdinand Wollenschläger as a member of the Expert Commission on the Implementation of EU Public Procurement Law in Germany (2014/2016). Since 2014, he has also been serving as expert for issues related to the free movement of workers in the context of the European Commission's expert networks FreSsco and MoveS, and in 2016 he was member of the European Commission's expert group on the "EU Social Pillar". In 2018, the German government appointed Ferdinand Wollenschläger as a member of the expert group on reforming the payment for medical treatments in the private and public sectors.
