Module AAA-0003: Exploring German Culture Erkundung der deutschen Kultur	4 ECTS/LP
Version 1.0.0 Person responsible for module: Anne Hanik
Contents: Students receive an overview of German culture, its society, education and business world, including media, music, politics, sustainability and the UNESCO World Heritage status of the city of Augsburg. In addition, active discussions about each topic and the exchange of personal intercultural experiences are a big part of this class. Furthermore this module includes two city tours in the city of Augsburg and lots of opportunities to explore a student's creativity on each topic agenda.
Learning Outcomes / Competences: The goal of this seminar is to provide the students with essential knowledge about the host country Germany and to facilitate their curiosity to examine the differences and similarities between their native culture or cultures and the German one. Student will learn how to do group work and how to introduce a topic in a presentation, as both techniques are valuable and essential for studying at a German university. Practicing empathy and ambiguity deepen an understanding of their own culture, perception and values, being aware of the so called "cultural glasses".

(in attendance) **

Are you an exchange student at the University of Augsburg und are you eager to learn und experience the German culture? Then this seminar has been especially created for you. As you know, the intercultural communication is about two things. The first one is information and explaining about the culture. And the second one is our perception, based on an understanding of our own values. So we will focus us on both subjects in this seminar. In 14 days you will receive an introductory overview of German culture, its society, education and business world. Including media, music, politics, sustainability and the UNESCO World Heritage status of the city of Augsburg. In addition you will benefit from rich discussions over every topic and exchange of personal intercultural experiences. Nevertheless, you will put into practice group work und a presentation performance, which are both valuable and essential for studying at the university. The goal of this seminar is to provide you with essential k...

Module AAA-0004: "Studying and Living in Germany" - Intercultural Competence for Exchange Students "Studieren und Leben in Deutschland" - Interkulturelle Kompetenz für Austauschstudierende	4 ECTS/LP

Version 1.0.0
Person responsible for module: Anne Hanik

Contents:
This seminar for exchange students at the University of Augsburg explores and experiences German (academic) culture in a relaxed, dynamic learning atmosphere. It is structured around two main pillars: "Studying in Germany" and "Living in Germany“. The first pillar "Studying in Germany“ simulates a typical German university seminar, focused on student presentations about intercultural theories, emphasized on academic standards as research orientation, autonomy, clear structure, punctuality, direct communication, collaboration, and critical thinking. The second pillar "Living in Germany“ involves engaging activities such as working with real critical incidents from German academic life, two active city tours, and challenge activities, providing practical applications of intercultural theories to everyday life. Together, these two pillars provide a perfect match for a new learning experience.

Learning Outcomes / Competences:
By the end of this seminar, students will enhance their understanding of key intercultural theories and apply them to real-life situations in Germany and other cultural contexts. They will develop practical skills for navigating German academic and daily life, including managing their studies independently, engaging in direct communication, and collaborating effectively. The course will foster intercultural competence and empathy through mutual feedback and discussions, helping students understand different cultural perspectives and develop strategies for handling intercultural encounters. Active participation will enrich their knowledge of German culture and contribute to personal growth.

"Studying and Living in Germany" – Intercultural Competence for Exchange Students (course)
(in attendance) **
This seminar is for exchange students at the University of Augsburg. Its main aim is to explore the German (academic) culture. This course will help the students find out how to deal with the challenges they might face in Germany. Reading materials will be provided, and the students can try out (interactive) tasks and develop their own ways of coping with the new and unfamiliar. They will have (online) contact withother international students and will have the opportunity to share their experiences with them and learn from each other. Mutual feedback and online discussions also help the students gain interesting insights into German culture and the way the other experience it. It is important to develop theirown strategies which are useful to master intercultural encounters and misunderstandings. Seminar participants are expected to participate actively, as this seminar course thrives on rich discussions and exchange of personal intercultural experiences. No previous knowledge or cours...

Module AAA-0006: Sustainable Future: Policies, Resources and Global Change Nachhaltige Zukunft: Politik, Ressourcen und globaler Wandel	4 ECTS/LP

Version 1.0.0 (since SoSe26)
Person responsible for module: Anne Hanik

Contents:
This seminar gives a clear and easy introduction to how we use natural resources, how the circular economy works, and how energy systems support a more sustainable world. It combines ideas from different fields such as economics, environmental science, law, technology, and social studies.

Students learn how the way we produce, trade, and consume goods affects the climate, the environment, and global supply chains. The course also presents simple and practical ways to make our economies more sustainable — for example, reusing materials, reducing waste, saving energy, and using more renewable energy.

The seminar also looks at important EU rules and policies that support the green transition and influence companies and governments. Students are invited to compare these with the policies and practices from their own countries and to share how sustainability is addressed at home.

Through short lectures, case studies, examples from different countries, and group discussions, students gain a broad understanding of the social, economic, political, and environmental challenges of creating a more sustainable future.

Learning Outcomes / Competences:
By the end of the seminar, students will be able to:

- understand how the world uses resources and why this matters
- explain basic ideas of the circular economy and the green transition
- see how production and consumption affect the climate and the environment
- describe the main EU sustainability policies in simple terms
- compare EU approaches with sustainability practices in their own countries
- suggest easy and practical ways to save resources and reduce waste
- work well with classmates from different backgrounds and understand different views on sustainability

ImpACTup! Innovation and Entrepreneurship for Better Futures (lecture)

(hybrid/mixed) **

This course is an on-demand online course and accessible for students from different backgrounds and disciplines. The kick-off and closing sessions will be held in person at the University of Augsburg. The course introduces entrepreneurship as an effective tool for implementing sustainable innovations. The students will learn how to tackle pressing societal and environmental challenges of our time. In the interdisciplinary sessions facilitated by professors from multiple faculties at LMU Munich, University of Augsburg, and the CDTM the students will learn about impact as a guiding principle for entrepreneurship. We discuss which stakeholders are important for entrepreneurs and how impact can be holistically achieved and measured. Thanks to interactive digital classes, the students will learn to develop sustainable business models but also how startups are financed and sustained in the long term. They will achieve an impact-oriented skillset over the duration of the course, gain a new h...

Contents:

- AAA accompanies international exchange students in the application process and in finding a suitable school for the project "International Classroom Experience"
- Project contents are agreed upon verbally in consultation with the teacher supervising the student at the school
- Preparation of a project plan in the form of a target agreement
- Regular attendance/preperation of classes (approx. once or twice a week) of "International Classroom Experience" during the exchange semester
- Preparation of a project report with the following contents: Description of the project, approach during the project, self-reflection and "lessons learned"
- Presentation of the project

Learning Outcomes / Competences:
After successful participation in this module, students are able to apply subject-related competences by identifying and defining relevant practical problems. They are able to apply the skills and abilities they have acquired in their studies to these problems and understand how to select relevant sub-areas from their knowledge, adapt them to real problems and develop specific solutions.
Using basic time and project management techniques, students are able to structure and prioritize projects into task bundles.
Furthermore, students possess interdisciplinary skills or a deeper understanding of interdisciplinary problems in nonprofit organizations/schools. They will be able to name intercultural requirements from their own practical experience and differentiate between them.
In general, professional field and social competencies will be required. By taking on responsibility and being accountable for their work results in front of project partners from the field, students are able to communicate and deal with conflicts.
