Module AAA-0003: Exploring German Culture Erkundung der deutschen Kultur		4 ECTS/LP
Version 1.0.0 Person responsible for module: Anne Hanik
Contents: Students receive an overview of German culture, its society, education and business world, including media, music, politics, sustainability and the UNESCO World Heritage status of the city of Augsburg. In addition, active discussions about each topic and the exchange of personal intercultural experiences are a big part of this class. Furthermore this module includes two city tours in the city of Augsburg and lots of opportunities to explore a student's creativity on each topic agenda.
Learning Outcomes / Competences: The goal of this seminar is to provide the students with essential knowledge about the host country Germany and to facilitate their curiosity to examine the differences and similarities between their native culture or cultures and the German one. Student will learn how to do group work and how to introduce a topic in a presentation, as both techniques are valuable and essential for studying at a German university. Practicing empathy and ambiguity deepen an understanding of their own culture, perception and values, being aware of the so called "cultural glasses".

Module AAA-0004: "Studying and Living in Germany" - Intercultural Competence for Exchange Students "Studieren und Leben in Deutschland" - Interkulturelle Kompetenz für Austauschstudierende		4 ECTS/LP
Version 1.0.0 Person responsible for module: Anne Hanik
Contents: This seminar for exchange students at the University of Augsburg explores and experiences German (academic) culture in a relaxed, dynamic learning atmosphere. It is structured around two main pillars: "Studying in Germany" and "Living in Germany". The first pillar "Studying in Germany" simulates a typical German university seminar, focused on student presentations about intercultural theories, emphasized on academic standards as research orientation, autonomy, clear structure, punctuality, direct communication, collaboration, and critical thinking. The second pillar "Living in Germany" involves engaging activities such as working with real critical incidents from German academic life, two active city tours, and challenge activities, providing practical applications of intercultural theories to everyday life. Together, these two pillars provide a perfect match for a new learning experience.
Learning Outcomes / Competences: By the end of this seminar, students will enhance their understanding of key intercultural theories and apply them to real-life situations in Germany and other cultural contexts. They will develop practical skills for navigating German academic and daily life, including managing their studies independently, engaging in direct communication, and collaborating effectively. The course will foster intercultural competence and empathy through mutual feedback and discussions, helping students understand different cultural perspectives and develop strategies for handling intercultural encounters. Active participation will enrich their knowledge of German culture and contribute to personal growth.

Module AAA-0005: Current Affairs, Culture and Debates in Germany Aktuelle Themen, Kultur und Debatten in Deutschland		4 ECTS/LP
Version 1.0.0 Person responsible for module: Anne Hanik
Contents: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Germany's political system, society and migration</li> <li>Religion and interreligious dialogue</li> <li>Economy, innovation and digital transformation</li> <li>Climate policy and sustainability and the role of Germany in the European Union</li> </ul>
Learning Outcomes / Competences: This course develops a deeper understanding of contemporary Germany by exploring current political, social, economic, cultural, and environmental issues. Students will examine how Germany responds to the challenges of the 21st century through the analysis of current events, academic literature, and authentic media sources. Participants are expected to read assigned literature before each class, actively contribute to discussions, and prepare a presentation on a selected topic. Throughout the course, students will compare developments in Germany with those in their home countries and strengthen their intercultural competence. By the end of the course, students will be able to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>explain the German political and social system;</li> <li>analyse current political and social debates;</li> <li>critically evaluate media sources;</li> <li>compare German and international perspectives;</li> <li>present evidence-based arguments in discussions and presentations.</li> </ul>

Module AAA-0006: Sustainable Future: Policies, Resources and Global Change Nachhaltige Zukunft: Politik, Ressourcen und globaler Wandel		4 ECTS/LP
Version 1.0.0 (since SoSe26) Person responsible for module: Anne Hanik
Contents: This seminar gives a clear and easy introduction to how we use natural resources, how the circular economy works, and how energy systems support a more sustainable world. It combines ideas from different fields such as economics, environmental science, law, technology, and social studies. Students learn how the way we produce, trade, and consume goods affects the climate, the environment, and global supply chains. The course also presents simple and practical ways to make our economies more sustainable — for example, reusing materials, reducing waste, saving energy, and using more renewable energy. The seminar also looks at important EU rules and policies that support the green transition and influence companies and governments. Students are invited to compare these with the policies and practices from their own countries and to share how sustainability is addressed at home. Through short lectures, case studies, examples from different countries, and group discussions, students gain a broad understanding of the social, economic, political, and environmental challenges of creating a more sustainable future.
Learning Outcomes / Competences: By the end of the seminar, students will be able to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• understand how the world uses resources and why this matters</li> <li>• explain basic ideas of the circular economy and the green transition</li> <li>• see how production and consumption affect the climate and the environment</li> <li>• describe the main EU sustainability policies in simple terms</li> <li>• compare EU approaches with sustainability practices in their own countries</li> <li>• suggest easy and practical ways to save resources and reduce waste</li> <li>• work well with classmates from different backgrounds and understand different views on sustainability</li> </ul>
